BURNED WHEN LARD CATCHES ON FIRE

Mrs. Walter Casteel was badly burned Wednesday of this week when a pan of lard, near which she was working in the kitchen, caught fire. Mrs. Casteel will be confined to her bed for several days but will probably have no permanent bad effects from the accident.

ST. CHARLES-ROSS WEDDING

Mrs. Kean St. Charles, one of the best known and respected women of Mohave county, was united in wedlock with J. C. Ross, a well known mining man, in Los Angeles last week. While Mrs. St. Charles is not a native daughter of this county she has lived here since early childhood. She has several children in Kingman and a host of warm personal friends who will wish her a world of happiness on the matrimonial sea.

SERIES OF PARTIES FOR VISITOR HERE

Monday of this week Mrs. Levi Anderson entertained for her cousin Miss Hazel Stout, who is visiting here from Toronto, Canada. The affair was in the form of a Valentine Announcement Party, announcing the engagement of Miss Stout to J. Max Anderson, of Kingman. The room was prettily decorated with hearts.

Progressive whist was the feature of the afternoon. Mrs. C. M. Leonard and Peggy Parsons sang.

The guests were: Miss Hazel Stout, Mrs. Geo. McWhorter, Mrs. John Allen Ware, Mrs. C. M. Leonard, Mrs. N. W. Phelps, Mrs. E. E. Bollinger, Mrs. J. M. Gates, Mrs. A. L. Tilton, Mrs. T. R. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ware, Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Ware, Miss Hazel Stout, Mr. J. Max Anderson.

LITTLEFIELD

J. W. Sylvester, of Mesquite, Nev., is visiting friends.

E. Lee is here on business from St. George.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Plake and Miss Violet Stucks of the Shivits Indian School spent Sunday here visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Reber last week visited in St. George and Santa Clara, Utah.

A birthday party last night was given at the home of J. W. Pollock in honor of their daughter Leona. A good time was reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reber and family are here from the Gyp mine, visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Reber.

Ray Pollock is here from Indio, California, following the advice of his physician. Allen Pollock also is here, being temporarily discharged from the navy, being stationed at Mare Island, San Francisco. He has been having trouble with his ears. They are visiting with parents here, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pollock.

CHLORIDE NOTES

Mrs. D. M. Smith of Oatman is the house guest of Mrs. Bob Ferguson.

Thos. H. Bell and "Dad" Owings are spending the week in Phoenix.

Mrs. Amelda Stearns was a Kingman visitor Monday and Tuesday.

According to the latest reports, Chloride is on the verge of a great boom.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Crouch and two beautiful children are among the new residents of Chloride.

Ladies Aid Society met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Hill.

Pete Larson returned from Oatman Tuesday.

Mr. Scott, formerly connected with the Elkhart Mine, was here on business the first of the week.

Sheriff Mahoney was over Friday to see how well we were behaving. He went back alone.

E. J. Carter returned to Chloride Tuesday and resumed work on the Tuckahoe.

The Ladies Aid food sale at Russell's store Saturday was a huge success.

Mr. Weighington, who has been ill for some time, was taken over to Oatman a few days ago where he can be near a doctor.

Health Officer Stallsmith has notified the people of the community to gather up all tin cans, clean out alleys, back yards and so forth.

Mr. Malick, mining engineer and geologist, reports very favorable mining prospects in the White Hills district.

It was reported in Kingman that a crew of twenty men were put to work on the Tennessee Mine, but upon investigation it was found that one man applied for a job and was answered in the negative.

YUCCA

Mr. and Mrs. Barney were recent Kingman visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Eshom are visiting in Kingman this week.

M. P. Chapman spent several days in Needles and Kingman last week.

The Arthur Heaths have gone to Phoenix for a visit of a month or so with Mrs. Heath's mother.

The weather has a fickle spell now and then—like April in the north—but the cattle are picking up, and the browse shows signs of springtime. There is quite a few young calves, and the feed can't grow too fast for them and their mothers.

NEW POST-OFFICES ESTABLISHED HERE

Postmaster Metcalfe informs us that he is posting a notice asking for applications for the position of postmaster at Wiskieup. Little is known of the new postoffice excepting that it is on the Sandy. It is thought that the location will be at the Hardwick home, but this is not authoritative.

Mail has also reached the county for another postoffice by the name of Lopeant, but where Lopeant is located is still a mystery. One of the communications is from Congressman Hayden so the postoffice has evidently been established. Mattie W. Ruesch is the postmistress at Lopeant, but where does Mattie Ruesch live and where is Lopeant.

DR. MCINTOSH BACK

Dr. P. McIntosh, dentist, arrived here this week to become associated with Dr. H. E. Kimble, in his offices here.

Dr. McIntosh is known here having practiced in this county some five years ago. Since then he has been located at Clarkdale and Jerome.

Cattle Growers' Convention Held Last Week At Phoenix

unable to sell and make delivery of our spring steers a year ago; no fall market existed, and now for a year we have been struggling for existence surrounded only by the disastrously peculiar phases of our business. Our range business at best is a most difficult business in such times of stress, and we are without many of the favorable features and safeguards obtaining in other industries. This financial of credit stringency, starting with and affecting us now for a year, has, gradually grown tighter and tighter, reacting more strongly against us by the requirements and decline of other industries.

"That, I feel has been principally responsible for the deplorable conditions obtaining among us today, and with troublesome matters of grazing, lack of feed, increased costs of production and other things, would kill the spirit and status of any industry no matter how healthy may have been its previous condition. And naturally, with our individual members being driven to these deplorable circumstances, the association has had to suffer in the same proportion, and as an organization we have not had the means to carry on the vigorous administration and campaign that give results to the cattle business.

As To Finances "The matter of finances, as you know, has been the burning question throughout the entire year. While our product, with other agricultural products, has had to suffer in the depressing conditions of readjustment of the abnormal period following the world war, it can not be denied, however, that the lack of money or credit has had largely to do with the absence of market for our stuff. Simply because feeders were not able to secure credit, we could not dispose of our steers a year ago, and throughout the year and up to now, it is impossible, no matter what may be the value of security, for cattle feeders to secure loans to mature cattle for which they have abundant feed.

"Realizing the increasing money stringency as ultimately affecting the cattlemen, as it does now, our association as early as last May expressed itself in strong language to the Washington officials of the Federal Reserve System in advocacy of some recognition that would tend to avert a condition of disruption and dissipation of the cattle industry. I believe we were the first to forecast the condition which has now come upon us, and during the year we have persistently endeavored to bring about some relief measures for the industry as a whole. We have been successful in securing a greater degree of consideration for cattle loans on the part of the banks, and in our investigations of this matter throughout the state we have found that our local banks have strained every effort to hold up and sustain the industry.

"You will all recall the discussions we have enjoyed in our past meetings in the matter of pending legislation having for its object governmental control and regulation of the packing industry. This question has gradually, and I feel rightly so, become an issue of the utmost importance to the cattlemen, particularly in view of developments generally throughout our country in the last few years and of legislative or governmental tendencies that do not bespeak a proper consideration or effect for business. Our association a year and a half ago went on record against the particular bill under discussion at the time, and at our convention in Tucson a year ago the matter was referred to the next meeting of our executive committee, which was held at Flagstaff in July.

The executive committee, as its version of the situation, then instructed the president to consult with the packing companies with the idea of determining if a spirit of co-operation could not be brought about between the producer and packer that the market for our products may be stimulated and kept in stable condition, thus eliminating the agitation and distrust which have continued as costly and destructive to both industries. I made a trip to Chicago for this purpose and found the men engaged in the packing business not only willing but very desirous to effect a close co-operation and understanding between the two industries.

Railroad Rates

"Early in the year the railroads were returned to their owners by the government upon a basis of law and its arbitrary interpretation by the interstate commerce commission that has inflicted gross injustice on the cattle interests of the country. The increase in rates has contributed in no little way to the appalling condition of the cattle business today. They are far out of line with the value of commodities and have had the tendency to localize products as a result of the present disparity between freight rates and the value of commodities. Unlike the practice enjoyed in most every other industry, the cattlemen have the direct burden on the expense of shipping and can not pass it on to the consumer. Nothing today is more economically unbalanced than the proportionate share of the shipping cost bears to the present marketing value of the live stock consigned—in one case I have in mind 75 per cent of the gross receipts was spent in shipping costs—and that in itself is the explanation of the present inequality of consideration accorded the two elements today.

"It was once thought or said that political parties followed in the path of tariff policies. As in many thoughts and activities, the great world war has wrought amazing changes and with the resultant upheaval in industry our ideas of tariffs have changed. The present situation, it is agreed by all, calls for the abandonment of sectional lines and the support of a constructive policy of sound protection which shall include such protection of producers as will enable them to market their products at a profit and to successfully meet the handicap of low foreign labor costs combined with present rates of exchange.

"Since the organization a year and a half ago in Salt Lake City of the 13 western states advocating federal regulation of the public domain, the government has changed its policy in regard to the 640-acre grazing homestead to the extent that with the possible exception of Arizona, most of the public domain is being taken up in 640-acre tracts as grazing homesteads. The government has placed a more liberal interpretation upon the requirements of such homesteading. From the fact that Arizona is practically the only state where but little of the land will be applicable under the 640-acre grazing law, we should, in my judgment, insist that a thorough classification be made of all lands in the state and that such lands not susceptible of homesteading or farming, should be sold to the cattle and sheep men in tracts large enough on which stock may be run economically and successfully and under terms such as not to be burdensome to the business of stock raising."

Committee Appointed

President Mullen then took up the consideration of the state land problem; the difficulties in the way of livestock sanitary board; an examination of the relations existing between the cattlemen and sheepmen; taxes; wild animals and rodents, and miscellaneous items. In ending his address he pledged his whole effort to the welfare of the association.

EAGLE DOESN'T CARE TO LEAVE HOME

The golden eagle recently captured by Greely Clack has been sold to Roy Jones, and was used last week as a part of the window display of the Arizona Stores Company, creating much interest from the passers-by.

Evidently the bird has been in captivity before as he is tame and gentle when being handled. Also he has returned to his cage several times after having been given his liberty. The last time he went to a height of probably a half mile, circled around in the air and came back again to his starting point.

A woman's struggle to get clear of the stigma of a past which is not hers, but which malice has attributed to her, furnishes the dominating theme in this powerful drama of the frozen north. It is a stirring love story, full of intrigue and treachery in the Alaskan snows and the scenic effects are beautiful. Also Mutt & Jeff and Henry Ford.

A story of a feud between a villain and the man who had interfered with his pet scheme which results in many thrilling incidents, some physical combats and considerable gun play. Carey appears in the role of Fighting Job, a border Ranger in a small mining town, liked by everybody but the villain. Also a Mack Sennett scream.

We are offering you a treat in this, Jack London's famous novel, a picturization of life within the dance halls and mining camps of the frozen north and it presents Mitchell Lewis in the part of a rough and ready prospector, who finds gold in the Alaskan hills, and then loses it among the wolves of Wall Street, only to regain it again later at the point of a gun.

This is a corking good farce comedy, teeming with farce and oftentimes dramatic situations and scintillating with comedy, suspense and all that goes to make a good screen story. The many characterizations are most human and true to life, and the situations and climaxes are well worked up and developed. Also an O'Henry story.

This story is more than fiction. Its subject matter is based on truths and facts of everyday life and gleaned from experience. Do you have to wait to become a sadder yet wiser woman? The answer you will find in this very interesting picture. A small town honest young couple striving to advance go to the big city and the complications start. Also a slapstick by "Snub" Pollard.

Ambitious to quit her sordid surroundings for the better things of life, a shop girl tries the chorus and through the accidental spilling of a bucket of paint she gets an inspiration—a song same title as the picture is written for her and she springs to fame. With the world at her feet, two men, a nobleman and a captain, battle for her love. There's a surprise for you in this. Also World News.

Do you jump at the sound of an unexpected noise? Do you shudder when you see a shadow move when you are alone? Then be prepared for this sensational mystery story, in which the quest for a hidden treasure is complicated by a beautiful girl of mystery. Also another chapter of the Veiled Mystery which will give you some more thrills.
